Three Days in Bangui

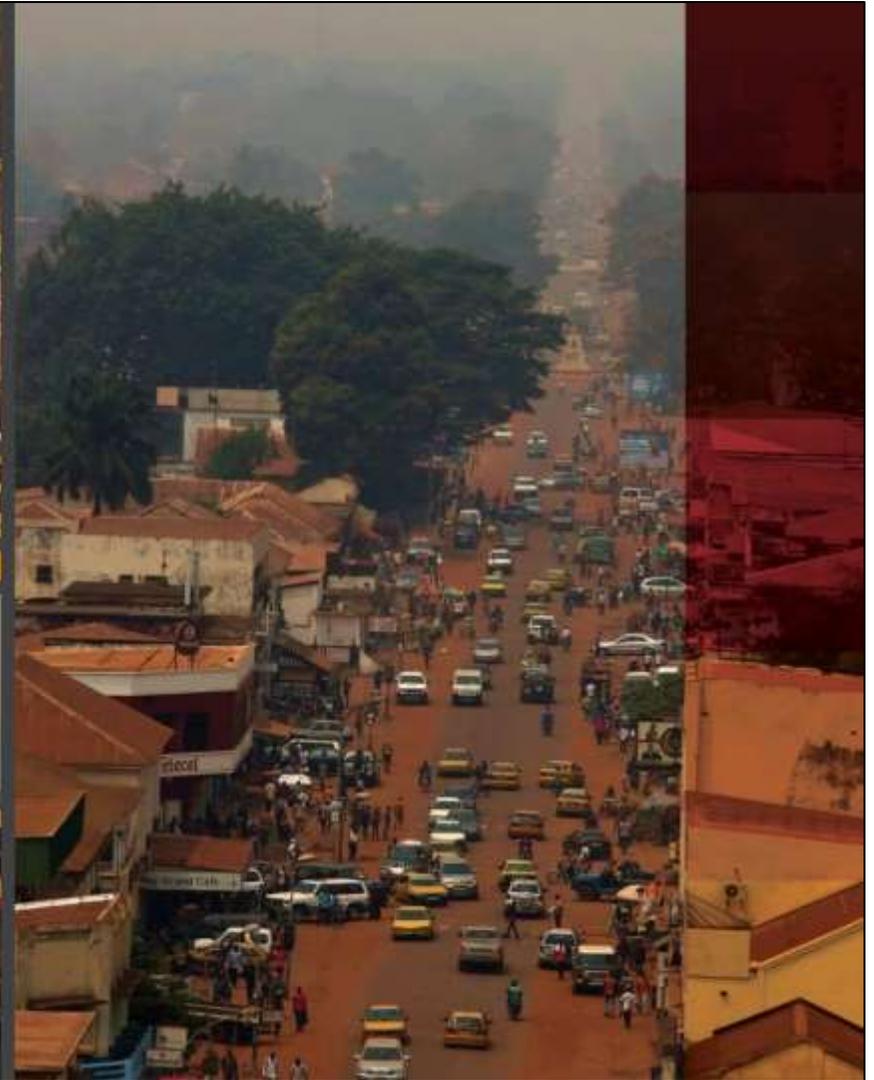

Inspired by a True Story

The dramatic encounter between Israeli reporter Adam Baruch and Israeli General Shmuel “Gorodish” Gonen in the jungles of the Central African Republic, where "Gorodish" had exiled himself to in order to mine for diamonds, after he was blamed for Israel's military failures in the Yom Kippur War, and turned at once from an admired Israeli hero to a reviled man.

Short Synopsis

1987. Adam Baruch, a senior editor at the Israeli newspaper Yedioth Aharonot, decides to travel to Bangui, the capital of the Central African Republic, in order to write the article of a lifetime, interviewing General Shmuel “Gorodish,” a once-admired Israeli general who has exiled himself after the Yom Kippur War, a terrible, bloody war, for whose failures he was blamed. In a series of sit-downs at a hotel in Bangui, and in the struggling diamond mine where Gorodish lives, far from any man, in the heart of the African jungle, Adam tries to understand the inner workings of Gorodish, figure out what he's doing in this violent, godforsaken place. Adam, who has admired Gorodish ever since he was a teenager, finds a broken and confused man, a variation on Colonel Kurtz from Apocalypse Now. A once-beloved national figure and war hero, Gorodish is now driven by an irrational need for revenge after his dignity was destroyed; he has lost his way in search of diamonds, and is moving mountains and rivers with grinding aimlessness, while remaining detached from reality, hallucinating, slowly dying in a strange and magical world, with no man or God around him. In a series of recorded interviews in a room at the Sofitel Hotel, out in the chaotic city of Bangui, or in the surrounding jungles, and culminating in a tragic climax on the river around the collapsing diamond mine, Adam exposes Gorodish's bleeding soul, digging deep and trying to uncover his core, while exploring the nature and quality of human society, as it takes advantage of people, including its own heroes, abandoning them on the battlefield of life.

The Script developed with the support of the Israel Film Fund.

Three Days in Bangui

declaration of intent – Screenwriter:

This dramatic meeting, and some would say the iconic one, of Adam Baruch and Shmuel "Gorodish" Gonen, in Africa, go along with me from 1987, a year when I was a film student, in which I was exposed to an article written and published by Adam Baruch in Yedioth Ahronoth newspaper. A tragic Israeli story (in the classical sense), which tells the rise and fall of a admired commander, who carried by the hands of the people ,in this case - the Israeli, who became later a victim by the same system that created him, thrown out and exiled mentally and physically, to a place he is trying to get back from but without success.

Throughout his life, the journalist Adam Baruch has been trying to crack the figure of Gorodish, seeing him as a "source" for understanding himself and many others. "Wars define the history of the State of Israel, whose date of birth is the date of the war," Adam wrote in the opening of his article on Gorodish, and Gorodish carried with him the two wars that changed the face of Israeliness - the Six Day War and the Yom Kippur War. The war of victory and the war of the great failure. When I decided to write this script I discovered that Adam Baruch kept the recordings of the meeting with Gorodish throughout his life, which were never published. The recordings that are a powerful document that made me tremble, revived the two's iconic meeting as if it were happening here in my room, became a revolutionary event for me as well. Now I know "how deep is the human wound ... how cruel is man ... how bad is being a victim ...how longing is there in exile ... how deep is a person's need ... Beyond images and masks... to be himself... to get a blessing". These words Adam Baruch is saying to Gorodish in the script. I want the audience will know and understand it too.

Three Days in Bangui

FROM THE SCRIPT

43. INT. RESTAURANT - DAY

Lunch at a French restaurant. The very picture of colonialism. Adam looks around. A hardworking woman, her beauty artificial, serves them local fruit juice and an enormous fish as the main course. Bill feeds his whore with a spoon. He's completely drunk. He and the girl share a laugh. Gorodish and Michal are busy with their respective fish. Adam isn't eating. He watches Gorodish eat.

ADAM (V.O.)

The colonial exploitation continues...

There is no trash in Bangui...

anything that moves gets eaten.

They eat the locusts, they eat the butterflies.

A sick pet becomes prey...

GORODISH

You're not hungry, Adam?

ADAM

No.

Adam finds an opportunity to talk to Gorodish while Bill is preoccupied.

ADAM (CONT'D)

Shmuel. Could it be you don't want to go back?

GORODISH

You know what they say in the Gemara...
How do you check if a chicken is kosher or not?
You put it in the river...
If it swims against the stream,
it's kosher. If it gets swept away, it's not...
"I'm a kosher chicken."

Adam laughs.

GORODISH (CONT'D)

I'll go back. But to do that,
I have to break first.

ADAM

Speaking of the chicken and the Gemara, there's a saying that goes...
"If it's like an egg, it's worse than an egg"...
Anything that's whole, authentic,
is better than its substitutes...
Aren't you going crazy here, Shmuel?

GORODISH

Anyone else would've gone crazy or killed himself, but not me...
I had one point five million dollars, lost it all... I'm on my last breath...
650 grand in debt, and I don't see how I'm going to cover it... That's why I've got my American partners here,
to take on the mine for the debt...

Gorodish nods in Bill's direction. Bill is drunk, smiling. He has no idea what they're talking about.

ADAM

And when you had one point five million dollars? Why didn't you go back then?

GORODISH

I wanted to double it...

ADAM

Excuse me?

GORODISH

Next time... Eat up, Adam.

Adam turns back to his fish, starts picking at it. Each man is lost in his own thoughts. Adam eats reluctantly. Bill is all over the girl, drunk. Her laugh betrays an inner strength. She knows what she's doing.

ADAM (V.O.)

Nine years, he's been here.
I think of an older brother led astray by life, a perversion,
a gene gone wild in the system..

86. INT. GORODISH HUT - A FEW MINUTES LATER

Adam gets inside the door of the hut, stands up. Samuel is sitting on the field bed. He looked exhausted, withered. The tape is closed. Twilight light surrounds the camp

GORODISH

Adam...where you go?

(Pause)

You know ... all of a sudden, I'm discovering a 9 year old hole ... I was not aware that I've been here 9 years, they passed me by quickly

ADAM

Because of me?...

GORODISH

... you force me to go inside ... press me on your questions ... and I'm trying to find, look inside myself to see what I'm doing here? Me ...
Where will I get fuel? How do I make the tilt?
How do you get out of debt? And suddenly I think of other things ...

ADAM

...Shmuel? ... I'm going back to Tel Aviv on Saturday ... with which Shmuel am I going back to?

GORODISH

The same one who was ... only in trouble ...not in mental trouble
... I'm sane ... I see things today differently, less sharp, less bitter,
I see these Histories ... and how it happens ...
more objective evidence

ADAM

And it tells you what?

GORODISH

...I'll tell you, and I'll try to answer, because I did not prepare for this question ... If we take the last 20 years, and I was 37 years old ...
I was a military man I was Jewish, Zionist and believed in people ... I think I remained a Jew and a Zionist and believe in God ...
I no longer believe in people. That's what happened to me ... and I do not like that change.

Adam looks at Gorodish. He's broken. Authentic.

ADAM

In what sense, Samuel... ?

GORODISH

In the sense ... that ... people ... that ... man created evil from his youth. People in a moment of crisis leave you alone ... even people you built,
who spent years to shape their personalities...
I felt like that ... that once you are thrown off the platform the wolves are hunters ... and they are among the wolves ... pushed me ... thrown ... and there is a train going in the woods and they push me and I can not hold on

ADAM

And what are the people left on the platform doing?
Looking into your eyes?

GORODISH

Keep going ... it was, I think, the biggest crisis
I went through ... I went through a lot but it ...
it amazed me ... as soon as you fell ...
you're alone, a wounded wolf, Under attack...
you understand?... and I am now looking for my way alone ...
I want to get back to it ...
and I am now ... in...

ADAM

Talk to me in the images

GORODISH

What do you want from me, Adam? ...
I'm not an image, do you not see?

ADAM

I see

GORODISH

...Yes? ... What do you see... ?

ADAM

What do I see?...I see ... how deep is the human wound ...
how cruel is man ... how bad is being a victim ... how longing is there in exile ... how deep is a person's need ... Beyond images and masks...
to be himself...
(Whispers)
...to get a blessing

GORODISH

(looks at Adam)

From whom, Adam?... Yesterday it happened to me
Tomorrow it will happen to you

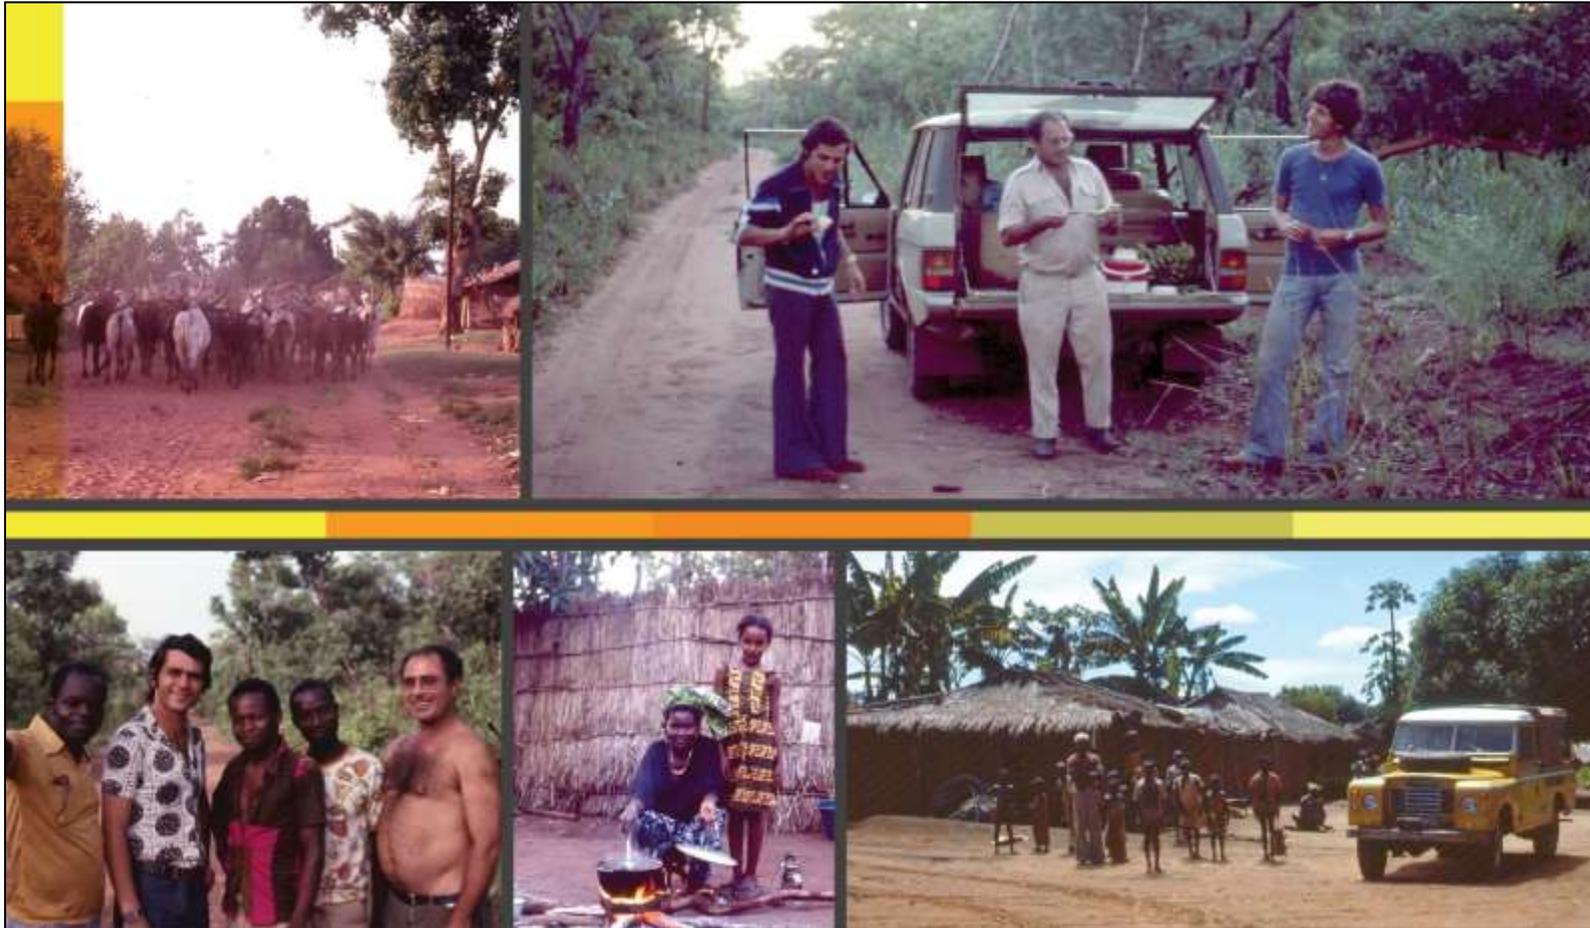

Adam is standing in front of Gorodish. It's not easy for him.

ADAM

Samuel, you need to rest

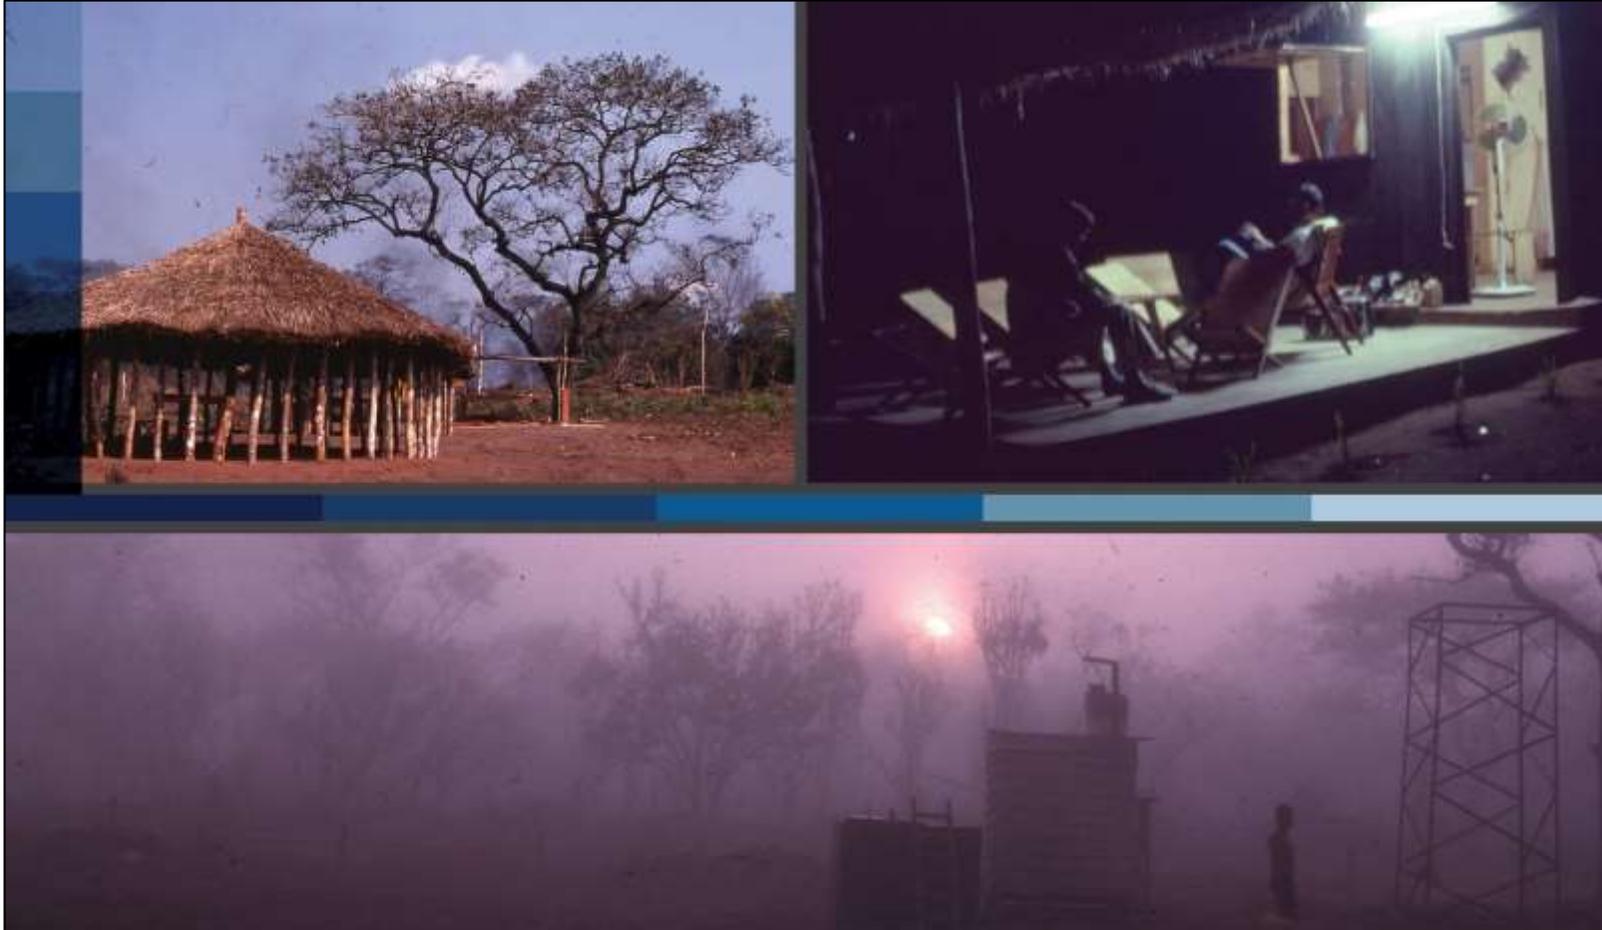

Gorodish is silent. The evening went down. Adam goes out. Gorodish does not look away, within himself. He is broken.
